

THINKING, LIVING, AND PRAYING

What shapes the foundations of character?

It is certainly not just book knowledge. How we live our daily lives also makes us who we are as people. At Jiyu Gakuen, we consider school as a microcosm of society. And as members of the society, each and every student is expected to act responsibly. Through constant communication with teachers and friends, our students are expected to become self-reliant individuals who are able to think and act independently.
